OUT OF DEBT.

Pennsylvania is announced to be practically out of debt. The total of the sinking fund has reached an amount in excess of all outstanding bonds and there is in reality a sur-plus. The Philadelphia Ledger challenges say other state or sovereignty in the world for such another example of prosperity and thrift," and New Jursey and several other states that are debtiess should be quick to call attention to their mod management and their surpluses. The state of Connecticut was in a condition to do this a few years ago.

Massachusetts has a net debt of vania from debt, the Boston Transcript says:

"It is a comfortable feeling for the people of a commonwealth as well as for an individuel, that they have no pressing obligations to meet. Public Ledger, however, admits that in ably promoted careless and extravahas a bigger burden she has more to show for it, for one thing in the aid she has given to the civil war veterans which will amount to many millions. A state or a nation with a debt, other things being equal, is likely to be more careful end conservative in its legisla-tion than one without it."

The legislatures of Connecticut for 1907 and 1969 certainly acted as if they believed a public debt was a public dessing, for they plunged the state into debt so that it now has a burden about equal to that which a series of state treasurers successfully wiped out in the course of a decade.

To be out of debt did not appear to be a source of comfort to the solons of this state.

THEY CANNOT BEAT THE VOT-ING MACHINE.

The flerce opposition to the use of voting machines at elections may be considered as one of the evidences of its being a check to those who rely upon political methods which would make Ah Sin blush. We occasionally hear that one of these machines has gone wrong, but we seldom learn why. We clip from the Newark (N. J.) News an interesting story of the erof a voting machine in that state, The News save:

The latest proof of the unerring honesty of the voting machine comes from the Fourth ward of Passale. At the last election in that ward the voting machine registered nearly two hundred votes too many for the republican candidate for chosen freeholder. These returns certainly seem ed to warrant the indictment, conviction and condemnation of the machine, although a number of old-time election officers have made worse blunders in Passaic county without being called to account. "The machine was tested yesterday and did its work perfectly. Not a single mistake was made; not even in the column that seemed to have gone wrong on last election day. And then the truth suddenly flashed upon the local oustedian of the voting machine and he confessed that he, and not the machine, was at fault. Last year there was no candidate on the column which gave too large a vote. In setting the by his grocer. machine back to zero for last month's election, the custodian neglected to set back the column under suspicion."

And where faulty operation of machines have been reported and thoroughly investigated, man and not the machine has been found to be respon-

A HINT FROM TAFT.

There is no doubt that the Sugar trust would welcome an investigation by a commission from congress just new, if for nothing else, just for the delay which such a movement would cause in the movements of the adminletration against it. President Taft his reference to the frauds and progress made in those cases ventured to express a hope that congress would patiently await the action of the govprament which has the business well in hand and proposes to push the to be gained by such an investigation. The Providence Journal is right when

NO PRIVILEGED CLASS.

Governor Stubbs of Kansas has been enubbed by the Topeka club because he believes that law is for all classes and must by all classes be respected. He was a member of this wealthy and influential organization, but when they were to entertain the chief justice of the state the governor was not invited and the function did not come off. The chief justice dined with the Elks and Governor Stubbs was in attendance. He is a prohibitionist and he believes in the law and he new is telling the people:

"If it is good for the rich man to have liquors in his club it is equally good for the poor man or the working man, or the black man, to have liquors in his club. If the supreme court decides the Topeka club can, under the laws of the state, keep liquors in their lockers, then every club, white or black, rich or poor, in every town in Kansas, can do the same thing in the same way. The prohibitory laws shall be enforced rigidly and vigorously against all classes and kinds of people alike in so far as there is power vested in my office to do so during this administra-

BOOMING AND BETTERING.

The advancement of cities must be in well-balanced form or they may become in various respects dis-Too much boom and too little civic pride do not work for true progressiveness. It is not the city that plunges that makes most lasting advancement. The American City is right when it says: "A city can be great without being big and if one-half of the energy expended by cham-bers of commerce and boards of trade in beeming their cities were devoted to bettering them, the results would be more satisfactory even from a business standpoint. There are already a number of relatively or actually small American cities to which people of means are moving by choice because they are desirable to live in or in which to bring up children. Civic virtue is becoming an asset which the shrewd business man will not long overiook.

With reference to maintaining an attractive municipal standard, the Bridgeport Telegram comments as "Municipal growth regardless of consequences may benefit dealers in real estate, at least for a time, and it may convert much we $18,000,000 and in calling attention to farm lands into high-priced building the fraedom of the state of Pennsyl- lots. None the less, such unintelligent expansion is certain in the long run to render the city a poor one, with an enormous disproportion between the number of its population and the number of its taxpayers. Taxes will become abnormally high and the burden of maintaining the city will fall upon the shoulders of a very few people. The great employers of labor will refuse to live in it and it will contain few citizens who are rich enough to be able by their generosity to lift the burden of sustaining many necessary institutions from the public purse."

A well-balanced city-the city that is bettered as well as boomed-is a good place to be born in, to live in, to trade in and to enjoy life in, for it invites residents because of its oppor tunities and reasonable rates, invites business because of its protective ordinances and low taxes, and invites trade because it has made a name for fair dealing. The excellent character of a city is its best advertisement.

Municipal Lighting Plants.

Municipal ownership and operation of public utilities isn't all beer and of public utilities isn't all beer and skittles. Serious charges against the administration of the municipal lighting plant in South Norwalk were recently made by a former electrical commissioner. The accusations prompted the creation of a special committee to use the probe. The committee's report finds that the charges against the superintendent of the works are not true, but various criticisms of methods are made. For instance, it is pointed out that a change of oils, contrary to the emphatic inof oils, contrary to the emphatic in-structions of the builders of the en-gines, resulted in wearing out the bearings of the engines. "A short time after the discovery of the worn condi-tion of the hearings," says the report, "the main shaft of one engine broke. The cost for the necessary repairs will amount to several thousand dollars. We believe that such costly experiionts should not be tried by a munici-

It is hardly probable that any such inefficient administration would be tol-erated in the case of a plant owned by a private corporation.

In Norwich the board of gas and electric commissioners has asked the council for authority to use the depreciation fund in order properly to maintain the municipal plant. A committee has been appointed to inquire and report. No such charges have been made in Norwich as have been preferred against the administration in South Norwalk, but a good deal of red

This is a season of gold braid and brass buttons. They are expensive to buy and many women might want to use gold braid they have if it were only a trifle cleaner.

Blue Dinner Table.

Blue is a shade seldom chosen for table decoration, as it is not easy to carry out this color scheme satisfactorily in either lights or flowers. A model dinner table shows an ingenious arrangement of blue decoration.

The china was an old-fashioned blue pattern, the glassware being the artistic colonial sort which is borrowed from Martha Washington days.

Tall vases of deep blue "bachelor buttons" stood at each corner of the board and in the center was a tall epergne of the blue and white china heaped with lusclous dark blue plums. The overhead light was softened by a pale yellow silk shade.

War on the Hatpin.

News comes from Paris that clubwomen there are taking radical steps to do away with the long, sharp-pointed hatpin. Those in charge of the movement have been making systematic investigations of accidents in Paris directly or indirectly attributable to hatpins, and it has been found that within a short time over twenty people have lost their eyesight because of the hatpins, while many others have been seriously wounded. A prize has been offered for an invention which will lessen the dangers of the hatpin or provide a thoroughly practical hat fastening in place of the pin. It is expected that at the "Little Industries" exhibit, which takes place in Paris this fall, many novel devices to replace the hatpin will be shown.
